Walking along a sun-drenched beach, have you ever questioned what you might miss if you never paused to listen to the ocean's rhythmic symphony? Or have you pondered the beauty you overlook as the colorful autumn leaves descend gracefully from the trees? These poems bring to light these untapped sentiments, giving voice to what we may fail to notice.

Using Descriptive Imagery

One of the key aspects that make "What To Miss When" poems so captivating is their vivid use of descriptive imagery. Poets skillfully paint intricate scenes, capturing small moments in time that may otherwise go unnoticed. With each carefully chosen word, these poems offer a glimpse into the unseen world surrounding us, provoking a deeper appreciation for what goes unmentioned.

Imagine a poem that describes the gentle rustling of leaves as a squirrel scurries up a tree, or the ethereal glow of a full moon on a clear night. These descriptions allow readers to immerse themselves in the poet's world, experiencing the beauty of absence and becoming more attuned to the myriad of sensations we may overlook.

Embracing the Power of Absence

In a world that often emphasizes the importance of what is present, "What To Miss When" poems challenge our preconceived notions by celebrating the power of absence. Through the act of missing something, we acknowledge its significance and learn to cherish its existence.

These poems unveil the truth that absence can be a catalyst for growth and renewal. Whether it's a poem about longing for a loved one's touch or yearning for the sound of raindrops on a rooftop, these verses remind us of the depth of our emotions and the profound impact that absence can have on our lives.

The Allure of the Unknown

One of the most enticing aspects of "What To Miss When" poems is their ability to explore the allure of the unknown. They offer a glimpse into the uncharted territory of our desires and unfulfilled wishes, prompting readers to investigate the unexplored corners of their hearts.

As we read these poems, we may find ourselves contemplating the things we have yet to experience or achieve, inspiring us to embrace our aspirations and pursue our dreams. By doing so, we unlock the potential for growth and fulfillment, ultimately enriching our lives.

"What To Miss When" poems are unlike any other form of poetry. They reveal the hidden beauty in absence, using words to transcend the tangible and explore the depth of our emotions. Through the power of descriptive imagery and the allure of the unknown, these poems invite us to appreciate what we frequently overlook.

Poems about pop culture, mortality, and the internet, written during the Coronavirus pandemic—for readers who are more likely to double-tap Instapoems than put their phone down long enough to read The Decameron.

Catalyzed by sheltering in place and by a personal challenge to give up alcohol for thirty days, Leigh Stein, the poet laureate of The Bachelor, has written a twenty-first-century Decameron to frame modern fables. What to Miss When makes mischief of reality TV and wellness influencers, juicy thoughtcrimes and love languages, and the mixed messages of contemporary feminism.

“Think Starlight,” the first poem in this collection, written before any self-quarantine orders, imagined the likelihood that the United States would follow in Italy’s footsteps in terms of caseload and hospital overwhelm. By March 17, 2020, the imagined was the real: New York City had closed schools, bars, and restaurants—with the rest of the country close behind.

With nihilist humor and controlled despair, What to Miss When explores fears of death and grocery shopping, stress cleaning and drinking, celebrities behaving badly, everything we took for granted, and life mediated by screens—with dissociation-via-internet, and looking for mirrors in a fourteenth-century pandemic text, a kind of survival response to living casually through catastrophe.
