If I had my way, the world would be slightly different.

The green man would stay on long enough for me to cross the road without cars revving up to encourage me to hurry up especially if I am carrying lots of bags full of shopping. And if you see me run to start crossing the road when the green man is on, take pity on me and just wait a few more seconds before you turn into the incredible hulk. Chances are you are unfit and just taking the car to the shops anyway. At least I am doing exercise and will live longer than you.

If I have to choose between two objects, I pick the best one and the one with the best value for money. Sometimes there is too much of a gamble and you stand in the shops looking like you have OCD holding two products comparing them. I know what crisps and chocolate I like so can quickly pick them up off the shelf, but when it comes to something more important I need to take my time without feeling people are staring at me. And if I want to go fishing in the supermarket for the fresh produce at the back of the shelf, deal with it and wait for me to return to an upright position.
